Catherine Broue is a registered nurse with extensive hospital experience. She has worked at the Allergy Unit for 4 years doing routine skin testing, asthma testing & education and adrenaline training. She has a keen interest in allergen desensitisation.

There are usually 10 to 20 adults in each class group. The classes are conducted so participants can interact in an informal way, but also structured so that participants can share their knowledge and concerns with the group.

The course includes a certificate of attendance for teachers and child care workers.
